TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

BY ROBERT F. DOTY.

Weep, soldier, weep, for one who sleeps,
Beneath a hero's patriot's tomb—
Who sleeps the sleep of solitude
From out this world of gloom.

Once in the ages of the past
His heart beat as our hearts beat;
But in the assassin's hand
Whose life was sweetly sweet!

No more upon this mundane sphere
Shall walk our honored dead,
For one lies in a patriot's grave—
A grave to which we're wed!

Weep, soldier, weep, for one who sleeps
Beneath bright freedom's soil,
Shall never wake from slumbering death
That which is free from toil!

The comrades that have fallen 'neath
The great rebellion's fire
Shall never wake from their long sleep
To raise the rebel's ire.

There was a man, old honest Abe,
Who fought for freedom's cause;
He loosed the shackles from the slave,
And gained the world's applause!

But death, despoiler of us all,
Came on too soon for one—
The assassin's bullet made its way,
And Lincoln's life was run.

Weep, soldier, weep, for one who sleeps
Beneath bright freedom's soil,
Shall never wake from slumbering sleep
That which is free from toil!

BENTON, ILL.

His Solemn Warning

"Yess, there's money made in stocks, no doubt," said the old man, as he removed his hat and ran his fingers through his gray locks; "but it's a reeky business; it's suthin' like betting on whar lightning's going to strike, with the odds in favor of hitting the tree you stood under."

"Then you never speculate?"
"Never. I dig along on the old farm, takin' one crop with another, and pulling out stumps when I've nothing else to do; and if I don't make many snakes I haven't anything to worry over. I had a purty solemn warning during the coal oil excitement, and it cured me o' speculating."

"How was that?"

"Waal, I was a widower then; wife fell down the well and was drawed out as stiff as a poker. I had a big farm, lots of stock, and was called purty solid. We all got excited about it, and all of us dug more or less holes in search of the stuff. All of a sudden a widder livin' about two miles from me found it in a dozen places on her farm. She was a widder with a bad nose, freckles all over her face, eyes on the squint, and built up like a camel. But when she struck it, that was a different thing. Old Deacon Spooner, who was a widower, got mashed right away. Our preacher, who had lost his third wife, saw the spec. I thought it over and concluded she was an angel. I guess some six or seven of us began courtin' that widder within sixteen hours after the first sight of it. I knew the procession reached from the gate to the house."

"And you got her?"

"Not much I didn't, and that's what I'm thankful for. Somehow or other I couldn't work up to the point. That nose kinder stood in the way every time I was ready to pop the question. She acted like she wanted me, but Deacon Spooner got the best of us all, and they made a hitch."

"And what then?"

"Nothing, except that she had dosed that farm with a barrel of it, and thus got a husband for herself and a home for her five children. When the news came out I was so cold along the back-bone that they had to kiver me up with a horse-blanket, and since that time I haven't had the nerve to buy eggs at 7 cents a dozen and hold 'em for a rise."

FOR MEN, BOYS OR CHILDREN,

OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURING, and sold with only a manufacturer's profit

This season is a peculiar season. Some clothing men who buy their goods from Manufacturers and Jobbers, had to put an inferior article of clothing, such as Sateen, Union Cloth or shoddy, in their stock, for the sake of apparently meeting the price which we, as manufacturers of our own goods, quote for our all-wool garments. Only our close attention to the manufacturing, and to the market, enables us to guarantee the articles sold, and to uphold the rule (which we were the first to establish in the west), of returning the money for anything bought of us, and not satisfactory after taken if returned not sold.

There is no particularly fresh "board of trade" news to publish to-day. A. H. Holmes was expected to arrive here from Bloomington at 10:10 o'clock this forenoon, but he did not materialize. He sent a telegram stating that he had missed the train, and would arrive here on the regular passenger train this evening. Having made a contract with the Western Union Telegraph Company to receive daily market reports from Chicago and other points, he will resume business at the earliest practicable moment. The special wire will be run from Manager Getty's office to the exchange room at Priest's Hotel, and a special operator will be placed in charge of the instrument. In all probability operations will commence to-morrow, certainly not later than Monday. Mr. Holmes appears to have the complete confidence of local speculators, and no doubt he will get the bulk of the commission business. It is said that Mr. Whortler & Holmes have stated that if Mr. Holmes resumes business they will seek another town, as it will not pay to establish rival commission firms in Decatur under the existing circumstances.

There was quite a distinguished gathering of notable state agricultural managers at the St. Nicholas hotel, this city, last evening. The states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were represented by the following named persons: D. L. Pope, of Wheeling, Ohio; Chas. Smith, of Marion, Ind.; Robert Baker, of Ellettsburg, Ind.; William O. P. Chaney, Winchester, Ind.; L. B. Wing, of Newark, W. I. Chamberlain, of Columbus, all of Ohio; S. Burr, of Bement, Ill.; and E. Spencer, of Richmond, Ind. These gentlemen had just arrived here from Springfield, Ill., where they had been attending an Interstate Agricultural convention, called for the purpose of discussing at length the agricultural interests of the several states represented. The host of the hotel spread a fine banquet for the party.

The war on passenger rates between the Wabash, Chicago & Alton, and Illinois Central railroads, still continues, the dollar rate between St. Louis and Kansas City, and between Chicago and St. Louis, going and coming, still holding good, with no signs of cessation. The rate from Kansas City to Chicago is only $1. The regular rate from Chicago to New York is $20, from St. Louis to New York $21.25, and other eastern points in proportion. This state of things places St. Louis in a great disadvantage, for the traveler can buy a ticket from Kansas City to New York by the way of Chicago for $21, whereas he must now pay $25.25 by way of St. Louis.

The Chasley Ward Case. Readers of the REPUBLICAN will remember that on Oct. 12, 1890, Charles Ward, of this city, brother of John Ward, of the street car line, was arrested at Williamsport, Warren county, Indiana, for illegally casting a ballot for the straight democratic ticket. This case will come up for final disposition at Indianapolis on Monday, Dec. 13th, at 9 o'clock, a. m., and will be tried before Judge Walter C. BURKS-WISE

A Joyous Wedding on North Water Street, Dr. Goodwin Officiating.

A happy marriage, notable for its quiet elegance and joyousness was consummated at the comfortable home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wise, on North Water street, last evening at eight o'clock, in the presence of about fifty invited friends of the contracting parties. At the hour named the bride, Miss Mary E. Wise, who was handsomely attired in a lovely dress of bronze and old gold combination silk, beautifully trimmed with bronze fringe—the ornaments being natural flowers—entered the parlor, escorted by the bridegroom, Mr. Howard C. Burks, of Danville, Ill. The nuptial knot was deftly tied by Rev. W. R. Goodwin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, who, after pronouncing Howard and Mary man and wife, offered an impressive prayer, invoking the Divine blessing on the young couple just starting out together on life's journey. Then followed the hearty congratulations of the relatives and guests, after which a pleasing ceremony a bountiful feast, which had been prepared with jealous care by the bride's mother, was spread, and discussed by all present.

At 10 o'clock farewells were exchanged, and Mr. Burks and his bride at 10:40 departed for Danville to pass two or three weeks with the mother of the bridegroom. Mr. Burks is a young druggist of good address and excellent habits, and on or about June 1, 1891, will engage in the drug business for himself, either at St. Joseph, Mo., or Atchison, Kansas. The bride has a wide acquaintance in this city, where she has resided for nearly a dozen years. She is a most estimable christian young woman. The REPUBLICAN extends to her and her husband its warmest congratulations, and wishes them unalloyed happiness and prosperity in their new relation in life.

A Warm-Hearted Officer. The always critical Boston Journal recently gave Barney Macauley the following complimentary send-off:

"All the interest is not allowed to center around one or two figures, but the play-right has created an ensemble of characters, the relations of which to his hero bring out the latter against a strong and natural background. Uncle Dan's amusing adventures in search of John Smith, his dangerous encounters with sharp and rough, his perplexities, disappointments, dangers, and triumphs, his discovery of more than he started for, and his general success at last, are incidents, all of which are admirably worked up, and from beginning to end the play holds undivided attention, its many sharp points creating unbounded enthusiasm. As Uncle Dan's Mr. Macauley presents a clear-cut type of the honest old resident of the back districts of our east, when the war-borne audience realized the presence of an honest, plain-spoken, plain-dealing man, who has business before him, and who goes at it in a business-like way. His humor, his anger, his sorrow are all natural, and control the feelings of those before him with a power that marks him as being a true artist. His play holds sympathy, his danger creates an intensity of interest, and his triumphs are regarded with unmistakable satisfaction."

Mr. Macauley and his superior company will appear at the opera house next Monday night. Tickets 35, 50 and 75 cents.

The regular monthly sociable of the Young Men's Christian Association occurred at the inviting and cheerful rooms of the association on Merchant street last evening, and was a very enjoyable occasion. The rooms were crowded for several hours. During the evening the following excellent programme was rendered: Solo—"Nooks of the Heart," by Miss Annie Kramer, with organ accompaniment by Miss Minnie Laroe.

Recitation—"Scientific Education," (humorous) by Miss Lucy Irwin.

Song—"Dew of Mercy," by the quartette.

Select Reading—"Betsey and the Bear," by Miss Mary Conner.
